

*Purbasa Banerjee

What kind of change is this?

What kind of change is this?
Where there's no happiness, no togetherness!!
What kind of change is this where people taunt each other!!
What kind of change is this where showing off matters a lot,
Competition and jealousy becomes life's plot!!
What kind of change is this where relationships stink
It's just me, me and me finally, it sinks!!
What kind of change is this where only "Realism" can be found
Thought of society as culprit but now it's only "Reality" that kills and bound!!
What kind of change is this where humans forget to smile and laugh
Things are taken as mockery and all tend to criticize,
Still it's not really enough from them!!
What kind of change is this where one leave one by one
Reminding us of our beautiful childhood days and how it's gone!!
What kind of life is this where there's lots of "No"
Feels strange that gosh!
These are worse than Childhood days "No"!!
What kind of life is this where children face reality from now onwards
Maybe it's great but have you ever tried to see the pain
Behind it that goes on!!
What kind of life is this where all are ready to play games by words
Utterances and meanings stay so apart
And far from that nowhere is there peaceful life's chord!

We are grown ups

We are grown ups
With lots of understandings
Maturity creeps in
Silence pushes up

We are grown ups
We don't talk to each other
We ignore
Which really doesn't bother
Show indifference
Ultimately huge break ups

We are grown ups
Hell yeah we just 'show'
Show offs
And it just "we", "we", "we"
Echoes all around
Each relationship hiccups

Yet we are grown ups
Perfectly we are
With the mirth
Of carelessness
And so much of "unheeded"
In spite of all
There's no eternal bliss within us
That we feel
A gloomy face runs through our blood
And that blood we all daily "sup"...

